Auger states they are very happy with Valpak because they notice the phone rings when people get the coupons bringing in new accounts with a variety of needs ranging from hardscapes to weekly mowings to building patios to snow plowing. They said they like it, too, because it has helped maintain their business branding so that the community knows who they are and everything that they do. That's important to them. They believe it also shows that they are a bigger company with insurance and not a rinky dink operation.
